CORAM : H.L. GOKHALE &
V.R. KINGAONKAR, JJ.

DATED : 10th August 2006

P.C. :

1. Heard the learned Counsel for the parties.

2. The goods imported by the petitioner are not being released on the ground that some another party situated in Chennia is objecting contending that, that party is the sole distributor. That is the matter between the Chennai party and whoever is the exporter. That is no reason for the respondents not to release the goods of the petitioner.

3. In these peculiar facts, we issue Rule on the Petition and having heard the respondents and noted their objections, we make it returnable forthwith and make it absolute directing the respondents to provisionally assess and release the goods to begin with and thereafter assess them in the regular course.

4. Rule is made absolute as above. No costs.
